Thumbacode, India

As one of the oldest corps in the territory, Thumbacode has a well established location and building, But a newly constructed road has forced them to relinquish a piece of their land which will require them to make alterations to their existing building and land. These renovations are necessary and will help them increase their impact in their neighborhood.

Tiruchendur, India

This corps, with over 45 families, meets in a temporary shed. After 25 years in rented or temporary space, they are looking forward to having a comfortable place to worship in the coming years as they seek to grow their church and serve their community.
